A SUBMARINE FOREST.

Along the great blue current of Japan that sweeps down the California coast is strung a chain of islands. They are the summits of offshore sierras, a coast range of California that has been partly overwhelmed by the sea. All have a peculiar beard, or pro-tecting growth of weed, that constitutes a perfect forest about them, a giant seaweed growing in water sixty or more feet in depth and forming a natural wave break and a home for countless marine animals. The vines are sometimes 100 feet in length, vast cables, with broad, crimpled leaves of a dark olive hue, which assume grace ful shapes in the tide.

When the visitor peers down into the turquoise water the scene is often a revelation. A new world is opened up and the real beauties of oceanic or submarine scenery are appreciated. The great leaves are carried by the fiful currents that sweep these islands in every direction. Sometimes they are extended at full length and appear like a horde of green snakes. Again they lie down upon the surface, list-less and drooping, taking myriads of shapes and forming nooks and corners

Most of the volcanoes of Lipari have ejected numaceous rocks, but the best stone is all the product of one mountain, Monte Chirica, nearly 2,000 feet in height, with its two accessory craters. a clerical correspondent to write a letas "boys who have more rags than the unknown preparations and you mulfins." No doubt that was not meant to be taken seriously from the etymological point of view. The mulfin of the word has puzzled many. "Ragamutin," says Dr. Johnson, "Is from 'rag," and I know not what else." According to Dr. Brewer the word means a rag-ged "muff" or "muffin" (a spiritiess fellow). But the original Ragamoffyn seems to have been a demon in certain old mystery plays, whose name was probably just high sounding nonsense It is curious, however, that "the rag-man" is an old name for the devil .-London Chronicle.

ion was a young Corsionn who was in the city for the purpose of pur-suing his studies at the university. Marcins, having heard that the young man was gifted with an extraordinary memory, desired to put the student to the test.

The person who had informed the traveler concerning the wonderful re-tentiveness of the young Corsican's memory declared that he was so gifted in that faculty that he could repeat as many as 36,000 words if read over to him but once. Maretus and three dis-tinguished Venetians agreed to test the accuracy of the statement. A committee visited the student of extraordinary memory and found him willing to sub-mit to the ordeni. Accordingly there was read over to him an almost inter minable list of words strung together without any consecutive order and vithout any meaning whatever.

The young man stood all the time with his attention deeply fixed and his eyes half closed. When the long string of words had been read off he looked up cheerfully and repeated the whole of the uninteresting catalogue of words without a single fault. Then to show how carefully his wonderful memory had retained every word he went through the list backward. When that task was finished he took each alter-nate word—first, third, fifth, etc.—and repeated them until the company was thoroughly convinced that they were in the presence of the most wonderful prodigy of memory that the world had ever produced.

KNOW THY COUNTRY.

Juvenal said, "This precept descends from heaven-know thyself." To this we add-know thy country. Know its area, its population, its products, na-tive and exclusive, agricultural and mineral. Know its present output and its possibilities. Know its states, its territories and large cities and what they are severally noted for. Know its geography and typography, its constitution, principles and history, its literature, its art and its sciences, its philosophy, discoveries and inventions. Know its relation to other nations both political and financial. Know its possessions - Alaska, Hawaii, Porto Rico and the Philippines—their history severally, the customs and languages of their people and the sources of their Bee's Laxative Honey and Tar wealth. Many men know these things now and love their country and are servers as a cathartic on the bowels. It portion to their knowledge. It costs labor and the sacrifice of so called pleasure to acquire this knowledge, but to the genuinely manly man, whose life's purpose is to make the utmost of his abilities and opportunities and who in one way and another is developing his country's hidden treasures and imparting his own practical enthusiasm to other lives, there are a relish and a delight in the search for knowledge that compensate a thousandfold.

The Woman In Business.

A New York real estate agent has been telling of some of his business experiences with women. Mrs. A., he says, wanted to find a house that would fit her carpets and wasted several weeks on the job. Mrs. B. had six children of her own, but wanted a be allowed in the building. Mrs. C. signed a lease with a clause that no dogs should be brought in and then deliberately brought several into be family and told the agent such restric-tions in a lease were of no account. "Do you wonder," he asks, "that men do not like to deal with women?" Of course, however, Massachusetts women would never do anything like that.-Boston Globe.

An ideal combination is to soap the body all over, using tepid water before plunging into a cold bath. But there are many good folks who cannot face a cold bath daily and who after taking one are apt to be cold and shivering plan is, after a warm bath, to sponge the throat and chest with cold water which is most stimulating and espe cially so where the bather suffers from chronic colds. To insist on a cold bath is just as unwise as to have a bath that is too warm and to remain in it too long. That is the more general mistake.

Her Word of Honor.

"Don't you love me?"
"Yes, dear, but I'm already engaged." "Break your engagement."

"Oh, George, that wouldn't be hon-rable! An engagement is a sacred thing, not lightly to be entered into or broken off. Besides"— "Well?"
